Board-Certified Pediatrician Now On Board at High Point School

Is there a doctor in the house? Yes, yes there is! The High Point School of Bergen County is extremely proud to announce that as of January 2019, we now have a physician on staff to oversee our students' medical care and attend to their physical and mental health needs. Steven L. Craig, MD, a Rutgers University alumnus, is a graduate of the Yale University School of Medicine who has been a practicing pediatrician for 21 years and has been working directly with schools for 10 years. A member of ProHealth Physicians based in Connecticut, Dr. Craig will be applying his extensive experience in pediatric and adolescent medicine to our school's holistic program, collaborating closely with High Point's full-time school nurse and available for scheduled consultations with parents, as needed. We not only welcome him warmly with open arms, but we're immensely honored to have his supervision and expertise working on behalf of High Point's students, parents, and families.
