

Rounding the Corner into May

Dear High Point Families & Staff,

Just a quick update as we end the week of April 27–May 1.

As you may have heard in the May 1, 2020 statewide briefing, Governor Murphy announced that he may have a decision about whether schools will reopen for this academic year, possibly reached as early as Monday, May 4.

As we anticipate that announcement over what seems to be shaping up as, finally, a nice weekend, we hope you take a moment to join us in continuing to focus on the good. There are many examples of the wonderful ways we are excelling during remote instruction and how our school community continues to support one another.

Also—as an FYI—this upcoming week is Teacher Appreciation Week. The past few months have made clear just how much our teachers deserve appreciation, and this annual observation is another chance for all of us to continue to express and display our thanks for the many, many ways in which our exceptional staff supports our students.

Sincerely,

Your High Point Family
